Montgomery County, Virginia –The U.S. Justice Department recently approved Montgomery County’s redistricting plan based on the 2010 U.S. Census.

Based on the County’s 2010 population of 94,392, each of the County’s seven districts must contain approximately 13,485 residents to meet state and federal “one person, one vote” requirements.

The new districts add residents to Districts A, C, E, F and G. There are approximately 2,100 residents removed from District B. District D remains essentially unchanged, with the removal of seven residents. In District E, a third precinct is added with a polling place at the Virginia Tech-Montgomery Executive Airport to relieve overcrowding conditions at the St. Michael’s Church polling location.

The Registrar will mail new voter cards in coming weeks to residents affected by any changes to districts, precincts or polling places.
